Overall Objectives:

Advancing Consent-based Siting of Spent Nuclear Fuel Management

Statement of Potential Overlap:

Common Ground & Nuclear Hubs

The Common Ground project established a national consortium for research and related capacity building to improve understanding of better practices on collaborative siting for critical infrastructure, with an emphasis on consolidated storage of spent nuclear fuel

Overlap: The Nuclear Hubs project builds on baseline work completed for the above Common Ground project. Going beyond the consortium scope of identifying general social recommendations tied to abstract siting processes, the Hubs project evaluates cluster synergy value, with a nuanced framework around perceptions, interests, and positions that are specific to states that submitted RFI responses on lifecycle innovation campuses. The Hubs project also focuses directly on factors like nuclear security, safeguards, and safety, as well as jurisdictional (dis)commonality, which are understudied.

Statement of Potential Overlap:

I-CREWs & Nuclear Hubs

The I-CREWS project advances science and capacity-building on community engaged energy-water system resilience. The project contributes research, education, workforce development initiatives, and partnering in the rapidly growing state of Idaho on strategic directions aligned with the State's Science & Technology Plan.

For I-CREWs and the Nuclear Hubs projects, there is some geographic overlap specific to Idaho. The Nuclear Hubs project looks at 4 states. The scope differs substantially.

Cost-effective Lifecycle-aware Deep Geological Repository Design

Statement of Potential Overlap:

This project aims to advance the fundamental understanding of factors shaping regional stances on compounded opportunities and risks as a key precondition for siting Nuclear Industrial Hubs (NIHs)—specifically the full-cycle Nuclear Lifecycle Innovation Campuses proposed by the DOE in early 2026. Going beyond "social buy-in" to evaluate "cluster synergy value," this will examine public perceptions, interests, and positions associated with the proposed hubs in 4 states—Utah, Idaho, Tennessee and Nebraska. Targeted focus is on elasticities relating to security, safeguards, and safety; and jurisdictional (dis)commonalities.
